

News from the Company 5 December 2017

RhoVac AB is expanding its international presence by attending conferences and by increasing activity on digital media

In alignment with company's strategy to license or sell, whole or part of operations, following completion of the ongoing phase I/II clinical trial, RhoVac AB ("RhoVac") is attending business meetings at international conferences and is strengthening its online presence on digital media.

Getting closer to reporting of RhoVac's phase I/II clinical trial in Q2 2018, and in accordance with our strategy to find partners for further development of the company's RV001 cancer vaccine, RhoVac has increased its international business development activities.

Company's management presented RhoVac at London conference Inv€stival Showcase on November 14th, where they had meetings with international pharmaceutical- and biotechnology companies, and investors. RhoVac was also present at London Jefferies Global Healthcare Conference, known as the largest healthcare-dedicated conference in Europe with 3,400 investor and business meetings.

To further grow its communications with potential partners and investors, RhoVac has built a short video animation explaining the concept behind company's therapeutic cancer vaccine. In the video, Anders Ljungqvist, RhoVac's CEO, explains how the RV001 cancer vaccine, by empowering the bodies' immune system, can suppress cancer metastasis.

The video has been published on multiple channels:
