TalkPool signs frame agreement and gets first purchase order for high-level FTTx services in Europe

TalkPool has signed a frame agreement with a major European network operator regarding design engineering, documentation, project management and construction management of fibre network projects. TalkPool will start delivering the services already in the first half of September in a first pilot project with a value of EUR 60 thousand.

The agreement covers in particular two kinds of software systems that will be key components in the competence build-up. Planning and documentation based on specialised software will be important parts of the assignment.

“We’re hopeful that the collaboration will develop into a long-term partnership with substantial benefits for both parties.”, says Erik Strömstedt, CEO of TalkPool in comment.
