

Thule launches two bike travel cases and adds innovative features to the category with integrated work stand

Bicycle protection is the number one priority when transporting your bicycle via airliner. With more and more cyclists flying to triathlons, cycling tours and granfondos, there is an increasing need for simple bicycle protection. Thule is proud to announce the Round Trip Pro and Round Trip Transition bicycle travel cases that combine protection, ease of use and security.

Available with the Round Trip Pro and Transition is an innovative integrated work stand to help with disassembly and reassembly of your bicycle. This work stand doubles as a rail to mount your bicycle on inside of the box creating a strong and secure platform to attach your bike on to. Whether you prefer a hard or soft case, Thule's new Round Trip series offer safe and stylish solutions for both.

Thule Round Trip Transition

Thule's premium hard case, the Round Trip Transition is made in Thule's Chicago cargo box factory and is made from a combination of ABS, aluminum and rugged nylon to protect the bike during transport. The integrated bike work stand makes bicycle assembly / disassembly a breeze.
