

Jonas Fintling new Mill Manager at Setra Hasselfors

Jonas Fintling, who previously worked at Setra, is now back and has taken up the position of Mill Manager at Setra Hasselfors.

Jonas Fintling has long and extensive experience of the industry. Between 2001 and 2010 he worked at Setra, among other things as Technical Manager responsible for major investment projects. Most recently he was responsible for waste management at Örebro municipality. He took up his position as Mill Manager in mid-September, taking over from Maria Granath.

“It feels like coming home. I have really missed the buzz of production and most of all the wood products industry is interesting to work with seen from the entire chain from raw material to finished product. The sawmill in Hasselfors also has major potential with employees who are interested in production and focused on results,” says Jonas Fintling.

Setra Hasselfors is a whitewood sawmill with approximately 90 employees and an annual production of about 270,000 cubic metres of sawn products.

Setra Group includes a total of nine sawmills, three processing units and two modular building factories.
