Rejlers nominated as The Employer Branding company of the year

Rejlers has been nominated for the award The Employer Branding company of the year in the group Young professionals. The winner is selected by the company Universum and will be presented in October 2014.

Each year, the company Universum recognizes a number of organizations and people who are engaged in and have contributed to raising the issue of employer branding.

"The companies who are nominated for The Employer Branding company of the year actively work to involve the entire organization, from management to employees, in matters relating to the employer brand. They also work strategically with the issue and communicate its offering in an inspiring way", says Claes Peyron, MD Universum Sweden.

"It feels great that we are nominated. We have had a strong focus on the brand issue during the year and have worked to be more visible on our markets in the Nordic region. We have also focused on communicating the opportunities and career paths that are available with us", says Eva Nygren, President and CEO at Rejlers.
