Change in management at Rejlers

On January 1st 2016, Jonas Thimberg will take over as CEO of Rejlers Sweden and will be part of the company's Group Management. Peter Rejler continues as President and CEO in the Rejler Group. Jonas Thimberg has worked within the group for 15 years. Over the last few years as Vice CEO and Regional Manager in Western Sweden.

"The group is growing and it feels good to hand over the role of CEO of Rejlers Sweden to Jonas Thimberg, who has worked at Rejlers for as long as I have. He has both the expertise and long experience in the engineering consultancy industry. As President of Rejlers, I can now focus more on the development of all of the Nordic operations and on our growth plans", says Peter Rejler, CEO and President.

Earlier this year, Rejlers launched their new growth target 2020-3030-4040, which means that by 2020 we will have at least 3030 employees with a turnover of at least 4040 MSEK. Rejlers recently acquired Orbion Consulting Sweden and grew to nearly 1200 employees at Rejlers Sweden and 2100 employees in the Group. Thereby we achieved our earlier growth target 3x2015.

Reorganisation

At the same time as the change of CEO, Rejlers Sweden is making changes to its organisation to create the right conditions for the planned growth.

"We remain focused on the close management, proximity to our customers and are focusing even more on business and technology development. It will be incredibly fun to lead the employees in Rejlers Sweden", says Jonas Thimberg, incoming CEO of Rejlers Sweden.

The Group management is growing

On December 1st the Group management grew by Jonas Thimberg, Mats Rehnqvist and Thomas Pettersen. Rejlers' new CIO Mats Rehnqvist, most recently comes from Anticimex where he was employed as CIO for 8 years. Thomas Pettersen, CEO of Rejlers Embriq, came to Rejlers through the acquisition of Embriq in Norway on October 21.
