Acando signs a strategic partnership agreement with Sonata and strengthens their global Dynamics offering

In order to meet an increasing global demand and to strengthen the offering within Dynamics, Acando signs a strategic partnership agreement with the tech company Sonata. The partnership brings together 1000 specialists with the ability to deliver Dynamics projects with high quality, speed and precision.

Sonata (<https://www.sonata-software.com/>) is a global technology company headquartered in India, that enables successful platform based digital transformation initiatives for enterprises, to create businesses that are connected, open, intelligent and scalable. A trusted partner of world leaders in the Retail, Distribution, Travel and Software industries, Sonata's solution portfolio includes its own digital platforms, best in class capabilities on industry leading ISV platforms like Microsoft Dynamics 365 and SAP Hybris as well as Application Development and Maintenance using Modern Platform Engineering tools and processes.

In addition, Sonata has unique tools and experience of upgrading Dynamics AX (Dynamics 2009, Dynamics 2012) to Dynamics 365, which will be relevant for many clients during the coming years.

- Acando has for a long time used the latest Dynamics technology to deliver successful projects, and now experience an increasing global demand. Acando's and Sonata's joint expertise enables us to support more and bigger implementation and maintenance projects, and to help our customers adapt to a new reality. We have already started to cooperate in projects and it's clear that we are very similar when it comes to how we value control, quality and satisfied customers. We're looking forward to continuing to deliver value together with Sonata, says Mattias Paulsson, Senior Vice President at Acando.

- We are extremely pleased with the partnership with Acando, which has great synergies in our capabilities as well as our approach to customer delight. We look forward to bringing the best of this combination to transform enterprises in their digital journey, says Tridip Saha, Vice President and Head of European business at Sonata Software.
