About Aligera Holding AB
Aligera Holding is and will remain a purely investment in renewable energy with an interesting profitability and expansion potential. The group will only invest in operational wind production and thereby avoid the risks, drawn-term perspective and needs of larger organizations, which comes with its own design activities or investments. The aim is to build long term holding that generates large cash flows and to contribute to the expansion of renewable energy.

Aligera Holding value their contribution to a greener society.
