

Peptonic signs distribution agreement with German Medical Supplies for UAE

Peptonic Medical (publ) today announced that the company has signed a non exclusive distribution agreement with German Medical Supplies for the United Arab Emirate market. The agreement concerns Peptonics patented self test to identify amniotic leakage.

Peptonic Medical has during the pandemic observed a growing trend where people want to take greater ownership concerning their own health. This by using self care solutions contributing to a reduced pressure on health care systems. It is important for users that these self care solutions are clinically proven.

To meet this trend Peptonic has formed the business unit Medical Consumer. The purpose is to build a unique portfolio that enables women to diagnose, treat and prevent vaginal health issues with clinically proven self care solutions. The acquisition of Israeli company CommonSense, specialists in vaginal self tests, at the end of 2021, was an important step

The new business unit is growing rapidly and attracts new partners. Today Peptonic announced it has signed a distribution agreement with German Medical Supplies for distribution and marketing of Peptonics patented self test to identify amniotic leakage during latter parts of pregnancies. The agreement is for the United Arab Emirate and is non exclusive. German Medical Supplies will sell the product under its own brand name Amnitec Plus.

German Medical Supplies import and distribute high quality medical devices to UAE. Peptonics self test to identify amniotic leakage is now added to the portfolio. The product has been registered with UAE's medical device authorities and will be launched during the fall.
