Information regarding possible government fee in Latvia

Evolution Gaming gives the following information regarding a possible new government fee to provide Live Casino services from Latvia.

The Latvian parliament has decided to implement a fee, starting next year, for Live Casino tables that are being provided from the country. As Evolution runs a studio in Riga, the company may be comprised by this fee. The decision has been made by the Latvian parliament against the recommendation of the government and several other stakeholders, and there is still a possibility that it will be changed.

Evolution regularly manages new regulatory propositions and changes, and the company already pays licence fees in several markets. The planned fee is not assessed to substantially impact the company's position.
