

Pharmacolog appoints new Development Manager

Pharmacolog appoints Lars Gusch as Development Manager. Lars has a long experience in product development and project management and will start his position January 1st 2019. Lars comes most recently from C-Rad AB, where he had the role of Global Service Manager.

As a development manager, Lars will be responsible for our development projects together with our team of qualified engineers and programmers. Previous experience includes a number of positions at BrainLAB AG, Nucletron AB and Elekta AB, where he had the position as Manager of Engineering. Lars will work close to our current Development Manager Jörgen Höjdmo, who in the future will operate in an expert role in the area of spectroscopy and system integration. Lars holds a Master of Science degree in Engineering from the Technische Universität Ilmenau, Germany.

CEO Mats Högberg comments. "We are very pleased that Lars has chosen to accept the role as Development Manager. We are in the process of starting several exciting development projects, it is therefore crucial that we have someone with experience and technical expertise that can lead the team and recruit new talents. Lars's experience of modern development methods and GMP work will be significant for our ability to quickly realize new innovations within our vision of individualized care and optimized medication.
