

Pharmacolog sells the first DrugLog® system in Germany

Pharmacolog's distributor Pharmed SAM has sold its first system on the German market through its German subsidiary. The system will be delivered to Unversitetsklinikum Köln, which for a period of time have evaluated DrugLog® at the hospital pharmacy. The system will be used for quality control of particularly hazardous drug preparations.

Pharmacolog's distributor Pharmed SAM has sold its first system to a hospital pharmacy in Germany through its German subsidiary. It is the hospital pharmacy at the Unversitetsklinikum Köln, which after a few months of evaluation, has now decided to buy the system. The system will be used for final control of particularly hazardous preparations of among others Noradrenaline and Morphine. The deal means that, according to agreement, Pharmed buys a system of Pharmacolog for delivery to the hospital. The transaction will be realized in 2018 and will have some impact on turnover numbers.

CEO Mats Högberg comments: "We are very pleased to receive an order from Pharmed on a system to Germany. It has taken time to process the German market, but we have conducted targeted activities and performed a number of test installations, which have now given results. Köln becomes an important reference installation on the perhaps largest market in Europe and will have a positive effect on current customer discussions. "
