

BizView continues its success in the market with its strategic partner Acando

Acando has with their experience and expertise, combined with its ability to deliver successful projects and solutions to its customers, become a leading provider of BI solutions in the market. CEO Oskar Kristiansen in Bizview Systems pronounce in connection with the new agreement with HEM that it's extra fun for Bizview to be a part of Acando's Insidan offer, which they now have great success with, as this is in line with Bizview's strategy to complement their partners offer to their clients. Oskar Kristiansen further states that they see great potential to further develop its cooperation with Acando.

Press release from Acando:

Halmstad Energi och Miljö (Energy and Environment) chooses Acando Insidan

Halmstad Energi och Miljö (HEM) has chosen Acando Insidan for planning, analysis and control of business operations.

"We have looked over the market for performance management and business intelligence and found that what Acando presented as their system solution is what cater HEM demands on the system at its best," says Torbjörn Sannerstedt, CFO at HEM. "Acando has a complete portal and solution where everything is connected, which is integrated with all of our operation systems for a comprehensive analysis and planning. This was exactly what we were looking for and fits hand in glove with our strategy to develop HEM's business."

HEM is an efficient and innovative municipal company in the energy and recycling market. With Acando Insidan is made possible a more efficient way of working and total control of the entire operation.

Acando Insidan is based on business intelligence tools from Microsoft, complemented by performance management and budget / forecast from Stratsys and BizView. Two well-established companies in their respective functional areas. The packaging is specially designed for municipal and public activities, but also works great in the private sector.

"With Acando Insidan, we can offer the market's best solution for performance management in one integrated package. We have complete starter kit for municipalities, county councils and municipal companies, as well as all possibilities for customization. This makes us the most attractive option for public businesses today", says Magnus Björk, business manager for Analytics at Acando.
