

NCG Group is history. Welcome to Bizview Systems.

"It's a natural consequence of our success with BizView that we now have decided to change our corporate name to the same; NCG Group is becoming Bizview Systems," says founder and Chairman of the Board Oskar Kristiansen. "Last year gave us a lot of new, exiting customers and partners on several continents, a trend we know will continue in the coming years. We therefore want to cultivate the brand BizView at all levels, and the first step is by changing the name of the company to Bizview Systems."

Close to 15 years of continuous development

When NCG Group was founded in 2001 the world was a different place. The Internet was still in its early spread, cloud-based storage did not exist - and Facebook was barely contemplated.

What did exist was a variety of different computing solutions for management information, monitoring, reporting and budgeting/forecasting. NCG Group entered the market with a number of these, but the basic product was CPM Suite, a solution that many actually still use. But as mentioned, the world changes.

"In 2009 we made a strategic decision to build our own solution from scratch, a web-based system for forecasting, budgeting, reporting, analysis and consolidation with «Excel-look-alike» user interface," Oskar Kristiansen continues.

"We who have been hands-on with Bizview knew all the time that we engaged in an on-going process, with improvements, updates, implementations - the world around constantly changes and we must make sure BizView always is at the forefront in terms of understanding technology and trends, as well as being updated on the development within User Interface Design."

In September 2015 was the launch of, for the first time, a full-fledged solution. With the integration of BizView Analytics the BizView 7.0 was a complete package. And the market responded accordingly! Last year gave a number of new customers and partners from all over the world, so now the next step is to go international with a product that can compete with anyone - big and small - in flexibility, usability and price.

"We have come to the time when the name NCG Group is a little bit in the way of further brand development. Our goal is to cultivate the brand BizView at all levels, and our first was changing the name of the company to Bizview Systems," explains Oskar Kristiansen.
