Carnegie reinforces its lead in Swedish equity research and brokerage!
- According to a survey of Swedish institutional investors

Carnegie's leading market positions in Swedish equity research, equity sales and corporate access are the strongest in recent times. Both individual customer assessments and the lead over other research and equity houses are at their highest levels for almost 20 years, according to the Kantar Sifo Prospera annual market survey.

Carnegie continues to strengthen its lead in research and brokerage services in the Swedish market. This is according to the Kantar Sifo Prospera annual customer survey, in which around 60 institutional investors evaluate Swedish market providers.

The investment bank again tops both the overall ranking and all evaluated categories: research & advisory services, execution and corporate access (investor meetings). Carnegie is top ranked in almost half of the individual research sectors, and is also praised for its ability to handle large orders and create liquidity in the market.

“In view of the significant regulatory changes that affected the industry this year, it is particularly pleasing that our long-term and targeted investments in both research and sales capacity are appreciated by our clients,” says Henric Falkenberg Head of Carnegie Securities.
