Eagle Filters' receives CE certification for FFP3 respirators and increases production capacity in Kotka

Loudspring Oyj

Company release

3 February 2021 at 17:30 (EET)

Eagle Filters' respirators have received CE certification for FFP3 class. The FFP3 mask is the most filtering of the FFP masks according to EN 149, the European standard of testing and marking requirements for filtering half mask. Among other requirements FFP3 respirators must have an aerosol filtration percentage of not less than 99%. CE certification allows Eagle Filters to sell and deliver respirators Europe wide to general public as well as to all consumer groups. Many countries outside Europe also accept the sale the of CE certified products.

Eagle Filters respirators have earlier passed the Covid-19 certification which allows sale of respirators to the health care sector as well as received CE certification for FFP2 class.

After the breakout of the Covid pandemic Eagle Filters, a technology leader in industrial filtration, developed its own high quality respirator product line and started manufacturing respirators in Kotka. Production started during summer 2020 and Eagle Filters is in the process of significantly increasing production capacity. Production capacity is flexible between the production of FFP2 and FFP3 respirators. Eagle Filters respirators are made of highest quality materials.

CEO, Jarkko Joki-Tokola, Loudspring: "We are very happy that Eagle Filters FFP3 respirators have received CE certification and can start delivering products to the customers. FFP3 respirators are the sought after highest quality standard respirators on the market and domestic manufacturing is a security of supply issue for all countries. We will continue to develop our manufacturing capability as well as product properties and believe that our FFP3 respirators provide us an excellent platform to be competitive on the world market in the long run."

Loudspring owns 85,1% of Eagle Filters.
