

Brighter takes action against the COVID-19 outbreak.

As a proactive response to the Coronavirus outbreak and for the protection of Brighter and the broader community, Brighter's leadership has recommended its team members to work from home until further notice. The action will be continuously monitored, taking into consideration the general development and recommendations from relevant authorities.

This decision does not affect the daily operations but rather secures that we can keep moving forward smoothly, preventing that our team members become ill in the important phase that we are in with commercialization and roll-out preparations at full speed. By implementing a wider work-from-home (WFH) arrangement, we can significantly lower the health risk within the company as well as contribute actively to the reduction, hopefully, of the spreading of the COVID-19. It also highlights the true Brighter spirit, and the benefits of the digital era. Our Actiste diabetes management service is built upon the belief that physical interaction can, and should be, enhanced with digital solutions to improve outcomes and reach better results! We should all use the digital innovations that are available today to stay a step ahead, and be all we can be. Always.

Henrik Norström
