

Brighter's Actiste Mini Receives Telecommunication Approval in Qatar

Brighter AB (Publ.) today announced that Qatari Communications Regulatory Authority has granted Actiste® Mini type approval for the radio transmission element in the device. With this approval, telecommunication registration is completed for Actiste® Mini and the product is approved for telecom use in Qatar.

Brighter communicated earlier this year that the company signed a five-year distribution agreement with Al Danah Medical Company in Qatar regarding Brighter's pioneering product portfolio for diabetes management Actiste® ("Actiste Service").

"With Qatar's healthcare system being primarily state-run the outcome of the distribution agreement we communicated in February will largely depend on the Distributor's ability to win public tenders, but this approval is a significant milestone in the commercialization of the Actiste® portfolio," says Christer Trägårdh, acting CEO of Brighter AB.

Next step is to receive the same approval for Actiste® (with insulin injection) and to complete all remaining preparations including patient on-boarding and customer service setup.
