

Itiviti appoints Olivier Gallet as APAC Product Manager to strengthen OMS agency trading offerings

Hong Kong, May 2, 2019 – Itiviti, a leading technology and service provider to financial institutions worldwide, today announced the appointment of Olivier Gallet as APAC Product Manager, High-Touch. Olivier takes responsibility for Itiviti's strategic agency trading solution development in Asia and reports to Jean Morice, Head of Regional Products.

In his new role, Olivier brings valuable agency trading solution development and customer services experience and focuses on regional high-touch product management, working closely with customers, prospects and the regional team to enhance solution and service offerings in Asia. Olivier has worked at Itiviti EMEA since 2006 and was one of the core engineers in developing the high-touch solution.

“While our competition is retreating from the OMS space we are investing, hiring and expanding,” said Ofir Gefen, President APAC, Itiviti. “High-touch order management systems is one of our key offerings to the sell-side community in Asia and I am very glad to welcome Olivier to the region. His vast experience with both product and customer, combined with the flexibility of our platform, is key to developing our APAC business. Itiviti strives to provide proven trading technology and professional customer services to financial institutions. Our expert team works closely with customers, to understand their business requirements and turn market feedback into innovative solutions.”

Jean Morice commented: “Olivier is a valuable addition to our team. We are delighted to have him in Asia and look forward to developing and offering trading solutions that best fit our customers' needs.”

Olivier Gallet added: “I am looking forward to contributing my skills and grow our agency trading business in Asia. My core focus is to support regional customers, from product specifications to project implementation and professional services, while working closely with internal teams to enhance our regional high-touch solution offering.”

Itiviti's agency trading solution enables low-touch and high-touch trading, adding powerful middle office components to manage the increasing use of electronic workflows while further reducing operational risk and lowering costs. Built on Itiviti's highly automated hybrid agency trading platform, it allows firms to scale across asset classes and geographies.
