

Flowscape wins new orders in North America

Flowscape continues its growth in the North American market. Offices are now opening in many states, which is increasing the demand for smart office solutions. The last weeks, Flowscape has won three new orders with a total order value of USD 45,900 the first year, and thereafter USD 11,190 annually recurring SaaS revenue.

Flowscape's office in San Francisco has a good inflow of new orders. The American companies are now opening their offices in several states, which is driving the demand for smart office solutions. The companies are looking for digital solutions for increased flexibility and efficiency for the new hybrid way of working, where employees work from home more than before.

“The competition is fierce in the North American market, but we have a very competitive offer, which drives a lot of interest. It is our ability to combine the market's best user interface and functionalities with smart technology to measure office utilisation that the customers like. Our ability to deliver a complete solution with both software and hardware is an extra strength as well.” says Magnus Arildsson, Head of North America.

Flowscape will deliver solutions for booking workplaces, booking rooms, smart USB desk sensors and room sensors as well as room booking panels.
