GomSpace Secures 50MSEK Contract with Leading European Defense firm

GomSpace has today been contracted by a leading European Defense company for a Space R&D program. This contract, for a total value of 50MSEK, will notably comprise the design, integration and delivery of a configured microsatellite platform and is expected to be fully executed in the summer 2027.

This agreement marks a step forward in our joint efforts to craft solutions with the ambition to deliver more value to the defense market.

“GomSpace is honored and ready to work alongside with market leaders in Defense for the development of critical and innovative space program aiming at delivering sovereign solutions to nations, in Europe and beyond,” said Carsten Drachmann, CEO of GomSpace. “The long-lasting efforts of GomSpace teams to become a robust, reliable and valuable global space industry company is recognized today by one of the very top and most successful European Defense companies. Our proven satellite platforms, agile manufacturing and partnership approach will be excellent basis for making this project a success”.
