

FlexQube sets up German subsidiary and hires a German Sales Manager

As part of FlexQube's ambition to strengthen its presence on the German market, FlexQube has now set up a German subsidiary, FlexQube GmbH. The German subsidiary is strategically located in Oberursel, just outside of Frankfurt am Main and will primarily focus in customers in Germany, but also on customers in neighboring countries.

As part of the increased focus on the German market, FlexQube has also hired its first German sales person, Jan Brettmann. Jan has many years of experience as a seller of products within intralogistics in Germany and has a large network within industries relevant for FlexQube. Prior to joining FlexQube, Jan held the position as Senior Business Development Manager at Trilogiq Deutschland GmbH. Jan will start his new position on April 1st 2018.

"We have great expectations on this expansion of FlexQube's presence on the German market, which undoubtedly is the largest market in Europe. By recruiting Jan Brettmann, who is a very experienced sales person, we aspire to quickly create a strong market presence resulting in new successful customer relations", comments Anders Fogelberg, CEO of FlexQube.
