Scandinavian ChemoTech reaches success in the Animal Care business area

In January, Scandinavian ChemoTech's new product, VetIQure™, for veterinary medicine was evaluated at a Swedish veterinary clinic. The result shows promising results.

ChemoTech has since the launch of IQwave™ treated patients on the human side and, after intensive development work, has introduced the company's first product for Dynamic Electroporation on animals.

ChemoTech's new product designed for veterinary medicine has been named VetIQure™ and shares the unique features of IQwave™, which makes the treatment tumour specific and dynamic, to also treat larger tumors and reduce side effects.

The animal that has been treated has had recurrence of cancer after previous surgical and radiation treatment. The first preliminary evaluation after treatment with the VetIQure™ show a clear improvement in the size, area and volume of the tumour.

"It is very gratifying that we get such good indications of the treatment results this early in the first clinical evaluation. The promising result indicates that our technology is working well within veterinary medicine. ChemoTech will continue its work on clinical validation of our patented tumour specific electroporation during the year for veterinary medicine. ", says Anders Johnsson, Business Unit Director for Animal Care.

Scandinavian ChemoTech AB (publ)

ChemoTech is a Swedish medical technology company based in Lund that has developed a patented technology platform to offer cancer patients access to a new treatment alternative, tumour specific electroporation, available for treatment of both humans and animals. There are a large number of cancer patients whose tumours for various reasons cannot be treated by conventional methods but where tumour specific electroporation can be a solution. Therefore, the company continuously evaluates new opportunities and areas of application for the technology. ChemoTech's shares (CMOTEC B) are listed on Nasdaq First North Growth Market in Stockholm and Västra Hamnen Corporate Finance AB is the company's Certified Adviser. Read more at: www.chemotech.se
