Scandinavian ChemoTech's subsidiary, Vetique AB, has today received an order from AniCura Animal Hospital in Jönköping

AniCura Animal Hospital in Jönköping, which during the spring tested and evaluated vetIQure™ for tumour specific electroporation of small animals, sees vetIQure™ as an important complement to its radiation therapy and has today placed an order with the company amounting to 4,000 Euros.

"We have very positive experiences of vetIQure™ and the tumour specific treatments we performed during the spring where the equipment has been an important complement to our radiation therapy," says Nanna Åkerlund Denneberg, Veterinarian and oncology specialist in dogs and cats and user of the company's equipment.

"It is gratifying that we have reached this milestone with AniCura Jönköping, with whom we began a long-term collaboration at the beginning of the year and look forward with excitement to the autumn treatments." - says Anders Johnsson, Chief Operating Officer of Vetique AB.

Scandinavian ChemoTech AB (publ)

ChemoTech is a Swedish medical technology company based in Lund that has developed a patented technology platform to offer cancer patients access to a new treatment alternative, tumour specific electroporation, available for treatment of both humans and animals. There are a large number of cancer patients whose tumours for various reasons cannot be treated by conventional methods but where tumour specific electroporation can be a solution. Therefore, the company continuously evaluates new opportunities and areas of application for the technology. ChemoTech's shares (CMOTEC B) are listed on Nasdaq First North Growth Market in Stockholm and Erik Penser Bank is the company's Certified Adviser.
