

Transiro signs agreement with Nobina Sweden

IT-company Transiro Int. AB has signed a contract with public transport company Nobina Sweden and sister company Swebus. The agreement that include Transiro's cloud-based products, begins in December 2016.

Nobina Sweden and Swebus, will soon start using Transiro's products in their organisations. The products in question include solutions for train replacement transportation. Swebus has used Transiro's products during a trial period of more than a year, and now chooses to implement the systems in order to streamline their operations.

"We are very pleased to enter this agreements with Nobina Sweden and Swebus, which operate in an industry where we see a growing need of innovative solutions to meet the end traveler's increasing demands on availability and transparency. Hopefully this cooperation with Nobina will lead to a better experience for everyone that travel with public transport," says Tobias Beckman, CEO of Transiro.

For more information, please contact:

CEO Transiro - Tobias Beckman
Phone: +46 8 684 284 01
E-mail: tobias.beckman@transiro.com

Chairman Transiro - Thomas Edselius
Tel: +46 730 911 211
E-mail: ir@transiro.com

About us

Transiro develops cloud-based products that help companies in the transport industry to strengthen their critical business processes. By visualizing and managing vehicles more efficiently, Transiro helps customers save time, resources and on is environment friendly. A broad functionality, including support for e-commerce and mobile devices, allows Transiro to replace the need of multiple systems within the transport business. With leading-edge technology and constant innovation, Transiro delivers tomorrow's transport solutions - today.

More information about the company is available at www.transiro.com