

Obducat launches new website

Obducat has launched a new website, available at www.obducat.com (the same address as before). This is a first step in the previously communicated plan to increase Obducat's external communication and visibility on the market.

The goal of the new website is to provide the market with clear information about Obducat and its operations. The website contains relevant and clear information for investors with financial reports, current company news, events and CEO interviews. Customers and other stakeholders can easily find information about our market offering, our products and technologies.
