Sileon is a proud partner at the Nordic Fintech Week

One of the largest Fintech events in the Nordics, the Nordic Fintech Week, will open its doors on Tuesday the 27th of September. Sileon is a partner and will attend the event in Copenhagen to discuss how banks, Fintechs and large merchants can run their BNPL in-house and tap into the growing transaction volumes without heavy IT investments.

For two days, the Nordic Fintech Week gathers thousands of participants to listen to inspiring speakers discuss the future of embedded finance. At 1 pm on the 27th of September, Sileon's CEO David Larsson and CPO Bahareh Zand will take the stage to talk about the increased demand for BNPL and how to swiftly launch BNPL using Sileon's modular BNPL SaaS Platform and Solutions.

About Sileon

Sileon AB (publ) is a global Fintech company that offers innovative SaaS-based Buy Now Pay Later (BNPL) functionality to banks, finance companies and large merchants. Sileon's BNPL solution is integrated into the customer's environment and operates under the customer's brand, which, unlike conventional BNPL solutions, enables the customer to independently provide BNPL without being dependent on third parties. Sileon operates in a fast-growing international market with an estimated transaction value of $ 680 billion globally by 2025. Sileon is listed on the Nasdaq First North Growth Market and has approximately 50 employees at its headquarters in Stockholm, Sweden.
