

InCoax streamlines the management team

InCoax Networks AB (publ) has after a review of the management structure decided to streamline the management team and has reached an agreement with the company's Product and Sourcing Manager Jesper Cederholm who will leave the company.

The sourcing duties will be moved into Operations and the product management responsibility will be handled by the management team.

Jesper has been employed by the company since May 2018 when he took up the role of Product and Sourcing Manager in the company's management team. Jesper will work until February 2020 to ensure a smooth handover.

With this, InCoax wants to take the opportunity to thank Jesper for his valuable contributions and also wish him best of luck with future commitments.
