Nitro Games secures publishing rights for Runegate Heroes

Nitro Games signed an agreement with Wargaming and secured publishing rights for Runegate Heroes.

Nitro Games has signed a new deal with industry-leading free-to-play game company Wargaming World Limited (“Wargaming”). This agreement is the next step in the co-operation, following earlier game development agreements between the parties. With this agreement, Wargaming assigns to Nitro Games the Worldwide (excluding China) publishing and further development rights to Runegate Heroes. The game is currently in soft launch stage.

”We feel that Runegate Heroes is a good addition to our self-publishing pipeline. We are now in a position where we can further develop the game and our team can operate the game to evaluate the long-term potential. This supports our goals of building a portfolio of competitive multiplayer games that we self-publish.“ says Jussi Tähtinen, CEO & Co-Founder, Nitro Games Oyj.

This agreement doesn’t contain any upfront payments between the parties. Nitro Games will pay royalties from the Game revenues to Wargaming. With this agreement, Nitro Games will act as the developer and publisher of the game, including marketing, promotion and running live-operations. Should Nitro Games decide not to commercially launch the game, the rights will revert back to Wargaming.
