

NextCell invited to speak at Advance Therapies Congress in London

NextCell Pharma AB ("NextCell") present the ongoing clinical trial program with the lead cell therapy drug candidate, ProTrans, at the Advanced Therapies Congress in London on May 24th-25th. The presentation will be given by NextCell's CEO, Dr. Mathias Svahn on Wednesday.

The first patient was treated with ProTrans in January 2018 and there are presently 4 clinical trials and one follow-up study ongoing. The active pharmaceutical ingredient in ProTrans is mesenchymal stromal cells from umbilical cord tissue. The patent pending selection algorithm is utilized for selection of cells and donors to ensure a drug product with immunomodulatory capacity.

"It is a privilege to present NextCell's impressive clinical trial program", say Mathias Svahn.

The Advanced Therapies Congress will bring together 1 200 attendees from across the advanced therapy medicinal product, ATMP industry from pharma, biotech, research, regulatory bodies and start-ups. During the last 2 years the Advanced Therapies Industry has seen great leaps forward in innovation, creative solutions to challenging setbacks, new technologies, interest, and investment.
