

QuiBids Launches QuiBids Store

QuiBids implements a new site feature to its online entertaining services, currently only available in the US market.

Oklahoma City, OK — November 21, 2012 — QuiBids.com, the world's leading entertainment retail auction, introduces its latest feature, QuiBids Store. QuiBids' customers may now purchase products at competitive prices, like they would with more traditional online retailers such as Amazon or eBay.

"This is a feature we've anticipated for quite some time," said QuiBids' CEO, Matt Beckham. "We've enjoyed giving our customers a fun and exciting online experience but also wanted to offer our services in the traditional e-commerce space. We believe we're expanding the entertainment shopping industry beyond what we originally planned."

QuiBids began in 2009 by hosting auctions for popular consumer products and has grown to become the largest online bidding site of its kind. With every QuiBids Store purchase, customers will receive Voucher Bids that they can use in QuiBids auctions.

"We've had great feedback from our customers," said Beckham. "Much of this feedback can be seen on our QuiBids Facebook page. We anticipate great things for QuiBids Store and will continue to offer more product variety and an overall entertaining online experience."
