Midsona recognized as Supplier Engagement Leader by CDP

Midsona is recognized for the second year in a row on the prestigious Supplier Engagement Leaderboard, compiled by the global environmental non-profit initiative CDP. Only 8 percent of over 18,700 companies in CDP's climate change questionnaire for 2022 are recognized as Supplier Engagement Leaders for their commitment along the supply chain.

CDP's annual rating is designed to evaluate and spur action on corporate supply chain engagement on climate issues, based on the CDP climate change questionnaire. In December 2022, Midsona was graded A- for its climate change strategy and leadership. In 2022, over 18,700 companies responded to CDP's climate change questionnaire. The CDP's annual scoring process is widely considered the gold standard of corporate environmental transparency.

"Sustainable businesses need sustainable supply chains. We're proud to have been recognized by CDP for our work engaging with our suppliers to tackle climate change. Customers today are very environmentally conscious and our sustainability work is an important cornerstone for our competitiveness," said Peter Åsberg, CEO of Midsona.

More on the CDP climate change questionnaire

The CDP (formerly the Carbon Disclosure Project) is an international non-profit organization that helps companies disclose their environmental impact. The CDP's annual scoring process measures actions and performance on mitigating climate-related risks and reducing greenhouse gas emission. CDP scoring drives corporate transparency and helps to guide, incentivize, and assess environmental action. The CDP climate change questionnaire covers governance, targets, value chain (scope 3) emissions and supplier engagement strategies, and factors in the company's climate score. The full list of companies that achieved a place on the leaderboard this year is available on CDP's website:
