

Risk Intelligence A/S and a major Norwegian Offshore Operator sign a deal for the Risk Intelligence System and bespoke intelligence support

Risk Intelligence A/S ("Risk Intelligence" or "the Company") and a high-profile Norway based offshore operator have signed an agreement giving access to the Risk Intelligence System as well as bespoke operational intelligence support.

The agreement will provide the Norwegian client with enhanced situational awareness as their operations expand to new areas, supporting renewable and traditional energy projects - via Risk Intelligence's cloud-based tool. Risk Intelligence will also provide bespoke port security assessments, area threat assessments and voyage risk assessments, ensuring that the operator has access to the most up to date intelligence – keeping crew and vessels safe, as well as informing commercial bids on security dynamics and concerns.

The parties have agreed to not to disclose the name of the client, but it is expected annual revenue will be at a level of 250,000 DKK per year with impact from Q2 2023.

Jim Pascoe, CCO of Risk Intelligence says:

"We serve a strong cohort of offshore operators, and it's great news to welcome our new Norwegian client to this group. The diverse range of operations they undertake expose them to geographical areas they have not operated in before, and that's where we come in, giving them access to up-to-date intelligence as well as access to the technical expertise in our consulting arm – we cover the whole spectrum from project feasibility through to situational awareness during execution."
