

Safeture Signs Partner Agreement with Italian Security Risk Management Company Aries Risk

Safeture AB, a leading provider of technology for managing people's risks, has entered into a partner agreement with Aries Risk, an Italian company specializing in security risk management. Aries Risk offers risk consulting, security operations, travel security, and protective services. This partnership enhances Safeture's network in Southern Europe and broadens access to digital Travel Risk Management solutions for Italian organizations.

Through the partnership, Aries Risk will be able to offer Safeture's digital platform as part of its services for organizations seeking to strengthen their Travel Risk Management capabilities and better protect employees, travelers, and mobile workforces.

Aries Risk is a veteran-founded company, built by former members of elite military and police units, with deep operational experience in security risk management and protective services. The company supports clients with proactive strategies to identify, analyze, and mitigate threats, enabling organizations to operate safely and effectively in complex environments.

By combining Aries Risk's operational expertise with Safeture's technology platform, the partnership will provide organizations with a more comprehensive approach to people risk management — spanning risk intelligence, employee location awareness, communication, incident response, and real-time support during critical events.

"Aries Risk brings exactly the kind of hands-on security expertise and client understanding that makes a strong Safeture partner," said Magnus Hultman, CEO of Safeture. "Together, we can help organizations in Italy and beyond take a more proactive, structured, and technology-enabled approach to protecting their people."

"Our mission is to use security risk management to support and enable business," said Andy Costa, Managing Director at Aries Risk. "Safeture's platform gives us a powerful digital foundation to help clients manage travel-related risks, communicate with employees, and respond faster when situations change."

Safeture's platform helps organizations know where their people are, understand how global events may affect them, and communicate quickly during times of uncertainty. The solution helps companies meet their duty of care responsibilities while providing travelers with relevant information and assistance when they need it most.
