Extraction VR shooter Ghosts of Tabor surpasses 3 MUSD in gross revenues on Meta Quest App Lab

Combat Waffle Studios and Beyond Frames today announced that the exhilarating extraction VR shooter Ghosts of Tabor has surpassed 3 MUSD in gross revenues on Meta's App Lab in under five months since its release, in addition to previously noting that more than 100 000 unique players have played the game across all available platforms.

Ghosts of Tabor is the only extraction based VR FPS PvPvE survival game where players will have to use their wits, skills and resources to survive. Inspired by hugely successful PC games in the genre, the game features a variety of scenarios from scavenging, looting to crafting. Players can make certain customisations to their safehouse by building their personal collection of weapons and gear to display in the armory. Players can further expand their inventory by gaining reputation with vendors and customize their loadouts with enhancements before joining a raid.

Following the Meta Quest App Lab and Steam Early Access beta launch on March 20, 2023, the game has continued to excite and grow its community and streaming audiences alike with continuous updates and fixes. The latest major update was deployed in July of 2023 and revamped the safe house bunker, added new game mechanics and included numerous other quality of life updates.

Ghosts of Tabor is estimated for a full launch with many more additions and features, such as new maps and core meta gameplay systems in early 2024 on Meta Quest Store, SteamVR and Sony PlayStation VR2. Additional platforms to be announced.

Beyond Frames portion of the $3 MUSD from sales will be impacted by platform fees and the revenue split with Combat Waffle Studios and other associated cost. These fees are recognized as costs according to Beyond Frames' accounting principles. Beyond Frames Q2 2023 report is due August 24, 2023.
