INVISIO broadens its product offering by signing a global sales and distribution agreement with Danish audio company N-ear

INVISIO and Danish audio company N-ear have signed an agreement granting INVISIO the exclusive global sales and distribution rights for N-ear's range of 360-audio tube products for military and law enforcement users. The agreement broadens INVISIO's product offering and strengthens its position as the leading supplier of communication and hearing protection solutions for professional use.

"Partnership with N-ear broadens our offering with a completely new product category that constitutes the most covert earpiece on the market. I am convinced that the product will generate great interest among our customers and that we will develop a good working relationship with N-ear," says Lars Højgård Hansen, CEO of INVISIO.

"In INVISIO we now have a partner that shares our view on product quality and customer centric solutions. INVISIO's global reach and market position match our ambitious strategy of creating and implementing highest quality communication solutions. Therefore, we look forward to developing the partnership and supporting INVISIO in their strategy for solutions and products for law enforcement and the military," says Mads Stærke, Co-Founder and CEO of N-ear.

The agreement is expected to have a limited impact on INVISIO's revenue in 2020.
