Eco Wave Power to Support Women Leadership by Sponsoring the Very First Israeli Participants in the Sahraouiya “Women Challenge for Solidarity” Competition in Morocco

Stockholm, Sweden – March 4, 2022 – Eco Wave Power Global AB (publ) (Nasdaq: WAVE, Nasdaq First North: ECOWVE) (“Eco Wave Power” or the “Company”), a leader in the production of clean electricity from ocean and sea waves, is pleased to announce that the company is providing sponsorship to the Israeli Participants- Vanessa Allouche and Ulfat Haider, in the Sahraouiya “Women Challenge for Solidarity” Competition, taking place in Morocco.
The exclusively female competition taking place from February 26 to March 5 brought together 80 participants from Europe and Africa, to an on foot, on bike and even by canoe journey for 100 kilometers in the Moroccans region of Dakhla along the Mauritanian border, and Vanessa and Ulfat are the first ever Israeli participates in this prestigious competition.

When explaining the reasoning behind the sponsorship, Inna Braverman, Founder and CEO of Eco Wave Power stated:

“This event is very special for me, as I believe women belong everywhere and am delighted to support this beautiful event, that brings together Jewish and Arabs athletes, as a sign of peace. Let it be a sign of success and let’s continue to empower women worldwide!

Eco Wave Power is committed to providing clean energy while supporting local communities. As a result, any funds won in the competition will be donated to the Jaffa Institute, which assists disadvantaged children and their families in the Jaffa Region in Israel.”

Ulfat Haider commented on the sponsorship as follows:

“I was a volleyball player in the Israeli National Team, and today I take part in marathons and triathlons. I lead journeys to the Himalayas and alps, to create cultural collaboration between Arabs and Jews, and to empower female leadership.”

She added “I am honored to participate in the Saharaouiya competition, with sponsorship from Eco Wave Power, as I believe that we should change the world, One Wave at a Time, to promote women solidarity, peace and renewable energy for a better future. Thank you, Eco Wave Power, for making it happen”.

Vanessa Allouche also thanked Eco Wave Power for the sponsorship and stated:

“I am a former professional jockey, and a former participant of the Israeli Big Bother and the French TV show Cash Island (the French version of Survivor). I am excited to participate in the Saharaouiya competition that combines my passions in life, which are: female leadership and integration, renewable energy and sustainability for a better planet and peace with our neighbors. Thank you, Eco Wave Power, for making it possible and changing the world one wave at a time!”
