Knowledge Lab wins further renowned partner with Ergon

Zürich, 24 September 2019 – Knowledge Lab becomes new partner of Ergon Informatik AG. The Zurich-based company, founded in 2016, focuses on data science, software development and consulting. With this partnership, it is consistently expanding its expertise in the areas of web application and bank data security.

Peter Häusermann, founder and CEO of Knowledge Lab, says: "We are very pleased about this partnership with Ergon. We implement digital solutions for our customers. The Airlock Secure Access Hub is an important component to enable good user experiences while maintaining the highest security standards."

With the Airlock Secure Access Hub, important IT security issues such as filtering and authentication can be handled in a single package. Presented this spring, the Airlock Secure Access Hub is a three-component all-in-one solution that protects more than 30,000 applications and over 20 million active identities for more than 550 customers worldwide.

- Airlock WAF analyzes all traffic to protected services and applications and blocks attack attempts before they reach internal services.
- Airlock API, the API Security Gateway offers tailor-made protection mechanisms for interfaces and ensures the connection of a wide variety of surrounding systems.
- Airlock IAM is the central Web Access Management component in the Secure Access Hub. It provides users with secure access to data and applications – with one-time login and automated user administration.

Knowledge Lab

Martin Zahner, Head of Sales Airlock Application Security at Ergon: "With Knowledge Lab, we are pleased to have found a partner who is highly competent in digital solutions and at the same time implements Airlock in our projects. Together we can support our customers even more effectively."
