New Sustainability Manager at Catena

Tove Palm will assume the position of Sustainability Manager at Catena on 1 March. The newly-established position involves overall responsibility for coordinating, developing and managing the company's combined sustainability efforts.

Tove joins Catena from Total Produce Nordic where she was responsible for and developed the company's sustainability work. She has previously worked with supplier approval at Everfresh AB, a company within Total Produce Nordic.

Sustainable development has long been a prioritised strategy for Catena with operational objectives including active participation in social development, green financing and the continuous improvement of energy efficiency in the company's properties. The position will be a strategically important Group-wide function for the company.

"Tove's recruitment is a natural and important step in Catena's endeavour to take responsibility ecologically and socially, as well as economically. Although we have progressed far in our sustainability work, with a stronger focus on these issues, we will be able to achieve even more positive effects, benefiting both the world around us and our operations," says Catena's CEO Benny Thøgersen.
