Fitch Ratings publishes Catena's long-term credit rating, BBB- with a stable outlook

On May 25, credit rating agency Fitch Ratings has published credit rating BBB- with a stable outlook for the logistics property company Catena.

Among other things, the rating reflects the company's strong market position and a strengthened financial risk profile.

- We have worked methodically to create a persistent risk profile and we experience great interest from both national and foreign investors. The rating verifies Catena's strong financial position and will help us to create conditions for long-term financing, comments David Silvesjö, Catena's Chief Treasury Officer.
