Build like never before in LEGO® Bricktales

In collaboration with the LEGO Group, Thunderful are delighted to reveal LEGO® Bricktales, a new digital adventure being developed by Clockstone, creators of the acclaimed Bridge Constructor series.

Travel across a diverse range of intricate and colorful diorama biomes all fully built from LEGO bricks, and get captivated by the charming story, LEGO Bricktales encourages you to unlock your creativity as you build your own solutions to the game's many inventive puzzles.

"After more than two years, it feels incredible to finally announce what we have been working on behind closed doors. We're honored to have this opportunity to collaborate with the largest toy brand worldwide," said Dieter Schoeller, Vice-President of Publishing at Thunderful. "With LEGO Bricktales, we've made it our mission to tap into what it is that makes LEGO play so special. Our intuitive brick-by-brick building mechanic allows players to engage with LEGO bricks in a video game the same way the toys have been inspiring people's imagination and creativity for decades."

"The game encourages players to use their imagination and creativity to unlock new skills that can help them progress to new levels. This new digital experience is rooted in the creative, playful joy that comes from building and problem-solving using LEGO bricks" said Kate Bryant, Head of LEGO Games Portfolio, the LEGO Group.
