Biofrigas CEO Erik Fromell to Present at Invest Live on May 21

During the presentation, Erik Fromell will provide an update on Biofrigas' development and discuss the company's technology for small-scale liquefied biogas (LBG) production.

The presentation will focus, in part, on the recently verified reference facility in Habo and on the commercial opportunities emerging as demand for liquefied biogas continues to grow.

The live interview offers investors and other stakeholders an up-to-date overview of Biofrigas' operations and market outlook. The event takes place while Biofrigas is conducting a rights issue, with the subscription period running through May 27, 2026.

About Biofrigas

Biofrigas Sweden AB (publ) is a Swedish energy technology company headquartered in Gothenburg. Founded in 2012, the company has developed the patented CryoSep® technology, which enables cost-efficient small-scale production of liquefied biogas (LBG). Liquefied biogas is used as a renewable fuel in transportation and industry. Biofrigas' technology opens a market that has previously been limited to larger facilities and enables local production in sectors such as agriculture, wastewater treatment, and industry. Biofrigas is listed on Spotlight Stock Market.
