Comment from Jes Trygved, CEO of Cessatech: This is the second award this year, and we are truly proud and extremely happy for the recognition by Affärsvärlden, one of the leading business journals in the Nordics. Thanks to the team for the hard work related to the listing, and for staying on track with our development activities during an extremely difficult time with COVID19. As with children, the first years will often define their identity - I hope it will be the same for Cessatech.
