

Polymer Factory Launches Sales Hub in the United States

Polymer Factory has activated a new sales hub located in Little Rock, Arkansas, USA. The purpose of the new hub is to simplify the purchasing process and reduce risk for customers, primarily in North America, when ordering and buying the company's products.

Initially, the hub will offer a selection of a dozen SpheriCal® products. Polymer Factory is partnering with Labscoop, the company operating the distribution platform.

"We want to be closer to our commercial and academic customers and make it easier for them to purchase our products. This setup streamlines the ordering workflow and drives cost savings," says Mats Wallner, CEO of Polymer Factory.
