

The KIWOK consortium advancing in application for EU research funding

The EP PerMed Call Steering Committee has informed the KIWOK consortium that our preproposal has passed the first evaluation stage successfully. We are now invited to submit the full proposal in the second half of April.

“The Call: Test and Demonstration of Multimodal data approaches for Personalised Medicine”

The call aims to:

- Bring together enterprises with clinical actors, including healthcare providers, patients and researchers, to test innovative solutions in controlled real-world settings to address clear needs in managing multimorbidity.
- Fund innovation projects in human health that focus on multimodal data usage for personalised medicine approaches providing more efficient and personalised management of patients with multimorbidity, having at least two chronic diseases that require management.

Our consortium consists of the project coordinator and academic partner Metropolia, Finland, who together with the City of Helsinki and Helsinki University Hospital constitutes Health Proof Helsinki; SaraWell, SME, Finland; KIWOK, SME, Sweden; Linköping University, academic research, Sweden; and BioTandem, SME, Türkiye.

The consortium has submitted the preproposal for a three-year project integrating, testing and demonstrating combinations of partner solutions in remote patient monitoring, digital twins and lifestyle guidance. We will now submit a full proposal.

For KIWOK a positive outcome of the full proposal would mean both collaboration possibilities with life science colleges and funding for further development of our solution BodyKom. The scope of the call aligns perfectly with KIWOK objectives to be able to offer personalised and integrated solutions for monitoring and management of patients with heart failure, COPD and diabetes. The test and demonstration possibilities the project offers leads to validation of the KIWOK solution in preparation for upcoming certifications.
