Press release February 6, 2024

Linked Dimensions, the developer of the highly regarded turn-based strategy game "Tank Operations" and the game's publisher, 2tainment, have set the release date for the product to February 27th, 2024.

The parties announce that the development of the final title has been finished and are now starting the steps in quality assurance and creation of marketing material. This product is under development and will emerge as a follow-up release in the late 3rd/ 4th quarter.

For this upcoming product, a Nintendo Switch version is also being planned for and is subject to release by the end of 2024.

Linked Dimensions, VD, Thorsten Unger, comments:

"The title is now ready to get shipped. With 82% recommendations on Steam, we see strong sales potential. We look forward to the full release and continue to work on further content."
