During the conference, Jing Liu participated in a panel debate regarding ESG-driven supplier diversity.

BPC Instruments is pleased to announce that the Company's CEO and co-founder, Dr. Jing Liu, was honored to participate as a featured speaker and acknowledged finalist of the European Entrepreneur of the Year Award at the EU Supplier Diversify Conference and Awards 2023. During the conference, Jing Liu participated in a panel debate together with other leading entrepreneurs within the supply chain sector to discuss how ESG principles transform supplier diversity efforts on a global scale and learn to integrate ESG goals into comprehensive strategies, driving positive social impact, environmental sustainability, and ethical governance.

The aim of the European Supplier Diversity Project (ESDP) is to support equality within the supply chain sector by recognizing and promoting ethnic minority and immigrant-owned entrepreneurs who are doing impressive work within the field. The event allows entrepreneurs to connect with larger global companies, European policymakers, and venture capitalists to facilitate the further development of their companies.

CEO Dr. Jing Liu comments:

I am deeply honored to have been acknowledged as a nominee of the European Entrepreneur of the Year Award, and I was humbled by the opportunity to act as a featured speaker. It is an acknowledgment of the incredible work of our dedicated team and the major impact our company is making. I was delighted to share our journey, insights, and vision, and make meaningful connections with fellow industry leaders during this special event. Receiving this kind of recognition further ignites our dedication to innovation and excellence as we move forward.
