

bookdialysis.com Calls for More Conversations About Travel Opportunities for Dialysis Patients at NKF Kidney Care Conference Singapore 2026

Many people receiving dialysis treatment believe travel is no longer possible. At the National Kidney Foundation (NKF) Kidney Care Conference Singapore 2026, bookdialysis.com sought to challenge that perception through a simple but powerful message: “One Conversation Can Change Everything.”

As a Golden Sponsor of the conference, bookdialysis.com engaged with renal nurses, clinic teams, and healthcare professionals from across the region to explore how conversations about travel can help patients regain confidence, independence, and a greater sense of normality.

For many dialysis patients, the barriers to travel are not only logistical but emotional. Uncertainty, anxiety, and a lack of information can prevent people from pursuing experiences they once enjoyed. Healthcare professionals are often in a unique position to help patients understand that travelling while on dialysis is possible with the right planning and support.

The “One Conversation Can Change Everything” campaign was designed to encourage those discussions. Throughout the conference, attendees were invited to share their perspectives on patient mobility and consider how greater awareness of travel options could positively impact quality of life for people living with kidney disease.

Participation in the conference reflected bookdialysis’ support for the important work of the National Kidney Foundation Singapore. Through its commitment to providing access to high-quality kidney care and support services, NKF Singapore continues to make a meaningful difference in the lives of patients and families affected by kidney disease. bookdialysis.com is proud to support this mission and the shared goal of helping people live better, more independent lives.

The conference forms part of a broader effort by bookdialysis.com to raise awareness of patient mobility and better understand the challenges people face when considering travel while on dialysis. The company is currently undertaking industry-wide quantitative research to explore the emotions, concerns, and barriers that influence travel decisions among dialysis patients worldwide.

“Travel represents much more than a holiday. It represents freedom, connection, confidence, and the ability to continue living life on one’s own terms,” said Evgenia Kafousi, Operations Director. “Every time a healthcare professional starts a conversation about travel, they may be helping a patient rediscover possibilities they thought had been lost and continue doing the things they love.”
