

Encare Strengthens Board to Support Global Expansion

Encare today announced the appointment of Charlotta Gummesson to its Board of Directors. With extensive experience in life science – spanning global pharma, investment management, and innovation ecosystems – she brings strategic expertise focused on commercialization, scaling, and international partnerships, strengthening Encare’s position for global expansion and long-term value creation.

Charlotta Gummesson brings broad leadership expertise from life science and healthtech, including senior commercial roles at global pharma companies GSK and Astellas, where she was responsible for business and market development. She also has solid experience in investment management, with a focus on funding and scaling high-potential companies. As CEO of Sahlgrenska Science Park, one of Northern Europe’s largest life science and technology parks, Gummesson was instrumental in building an internationally recognized innovation ecosystem that connects research, industry, and capital.

“We are very pleased to welcome Charlotta Gummesson to Encare’s Board. Her strong credentials in life science and proven track record in commercialization and growth will be a valuable contribution as we work to establish ERAS® as a standard in more healthcare systems worldwide,” says Rasmus Waller, CEO of Encare.

“Encare is tackling one of the most critical challenges in surgical care – ensuring faster recovery and better outcomes through evidence-based protocols. I look forward to bringing my experience in commercialization, healthcare, and investment to help scale Encare’s solution, creating lasting value for both patients and healthcare systems worldwide,” says Charlotta Gummesson.

By appointing Charlotta Gummesson to the Board, Encare adds further expertise in life science, commercialization, and international business development – reinforcing the company's position for future growth. Learn more about the Board of Directors here: encare.net/board-of-directors

About Encare

Encare is a HealthTech company that develops a SaaS solution that contributes to improving surgical outcomes. Encare's interactive, cloud-based solution enables healthcare providers to follow international treatment guidelines before, during, and after major surgical procedures. Encare's service contains programs, so-called protocols, based on the international guidelines ERAS[®], Enhanced Recovery After Surgery, built on research and global best practice. Encare was founded in 2009 by Professor Olle Ljungqvist, one of the founders of the ERAS[®] Society – a network of world-leading perioperative care authorities that develops the guidelines. In 2022, Professor Ljungqvist was awarded the most prestigious prize in the world of surgery by the International Society of Surgery (SS/SIC) for his work with ERAS[®].
