Scandiflash enters into cooperation with Pulse MC2 regarding sales of Doppler radar systems

Scandinavian Astor Group ("Astor Group" or the "Company") announces that its subsidiary Scandiflash AB ("Scandiflash") has entered into a cooperation agreement with Pulse MC2, the official European distributor for INFINITION and its Doppler radar systems. Under the agreement, Scandiflash is appointed as sub-distributor for Sweden, Norway, and Denmark, with responsibility for marketing and sales of INFINITION's advanced Doppler radar systems in the region.

The collaboration strengthens Scandiflash position in the field of high-resolution measurement and testing solutions, where the company is already an established supplier to customers in the defense and research sectors. The partnership broadens the offering to include internationally recognized Doppler radar used to measure speed and motion in research and defense applications.

"We are delighted to represent Pulse MC2 and INFINITION in Scandinavia. The collaboration complements our existing product range and strengthens our ability to offer customers advanced measurement and testing technology," says John Åhlund, CEO of Scandiflash.

Within the framework of the partnership, Scandiflash will be responsible for marketing, customer contacts, and demonstrations in the Nordic countries. The collaboration is part of Scandiflash strategy to further strengthen its offering of advanced measurement solutions for customers in the defense and research sectors.
